CANCER RESEARCH UK RELAY FOR LIFE
 A small group of volunteers are seeking to establish a first Relay For Life event in Abingdon in the summer of 2009. This promises to be a very different experience for most people, including established Cancer Research supporters. And before you run away at the thought of vigorous exercise, it's a fun event suitable for all ages and abilities and no running is necessary (unless you want to). The event is held over a 24 hour period on a weekend. It draws on the community in Abingdon and South Oxfordshire: It combines lots of fun activities from face painting to singing and dancing (and you can participate or just watch) with the more serious side of remembering those that have been touched by cancer, celebrating the survivors, and most of all, being positive about the successes that future research is certain to bring. It's a group event meant for family, friends and colleagues who between them carry out the Relay. Let's be honest, this is about raising funds for charity, but there's never been a more fun filled or rewarding way to get involved. If you want to know more, or how to get involved, you can call Paul on 07757713314 or email abingdon.relay@btinternet.com. There's also info on the web: <http://www.cancerresearchuk.org/relay/>. We'd love to hear from you.
